The Work of Reconstruction

The Belgian Scholarship Committee, which includes among its members the presidents or chancellors of Johns Hopkins, Princeton, Michigan, Missouri, Leland Stanford, Pennsylvania, and several other universities, aims

(1) To give to the Belgian scholars, writers and artists a chance to resume their work of art or science. To accomplish this aim the Belgian Scholarship Committee acts as a clearing bureau between the American Universities and other educational institutions and the Belgian victims of the war.

(2) To raise a fund for the reconstruction of a new and better Belgium, especially in the educational field.

The first aim is only of a temporary nature; the second one becomes every day more important. Our ambition is to be ready, as soon as the war is over, to help in putting Belgium on her feet again for a new and greater career.

We are appealing for books to the American libraries; we hope that they will be willing to give some of their duplicate copies, and also that we shall receive free sets of their publications from educational institutions and learned societies.

We do not wish these books at once but should like from each library a list of such books as it will send after the war. We desire especially American books—books published in America or relating to American affairs. We should thus be able to offer to Belgium, soon after the war, an American Library. No gift would be more appreciated and would do more to bring about a better understanding of American conditions and ideals, and greater international friendship.

Books given by publishers and authors will be welcome. Dedications by the authors would be appreciated.

We are also appealing for money. Money is needed to help Belgian scholars and artists; money is needed to carry on our activities; lastly we must be able to remit a huge reconstruction fund (to be used for educational purposes only) to the Belgian people when the war is over.

The best way to show one's sympathy is to become a Fellow or Member of the Belgian Scholarship Fund for the duration of the war and two years thereafter. The Associate members agree to subscribe at least Ten Dollars a year; the Sustaining members at least One Hundred, and the Fellows a Thousand. Please draw checks to the order of John Joy Edson, Treasurer, and send them to the Belgian Scholarship Committee, 309 Wilkins Building, Washington, D. C.

We wish to lay stress upon the fact that ours is not simply a relief work. It is essentially a work of Reconstruction, making for international friendship and peace.

An Appeal to Intellectuals

The Open Court International
Series of Books on the War

ABOVE THE BATTLE

By Romain Rolland (France)

Author of Jean Christophe

8vo. Pp. 202. $1.00 net.

These essays were suppressed in France because they denounced war and called upon socialists in France and Germany to declare a strike.

JUSTICE IN WAR TIME

By the Hon. Bertrand Russell (England)

8vo. Pp. 243. Cloth $1.00, paper 50 cents.

A searching analysis of the causes of this war from a strictly non-partisan attitude. It will remain as a historical document.

BELGIUM AND GERMANY

By Dr. J. H. Labberton (Holland)

8vo. Pp. 163. Cloth $1.00.

The geographical position of Holland in relation to Germany and Belgium, and the fact that Dr. Labberton is an official of the Dutch government gives his book an unusual importance. It deals with the fate of Belgium and Germany's right of self-defense.

GERMANY MISJUDGED

By Roland Hugins (Cornell University)

8vo. Pp. 160. Cloth $1.00.

An eloquent and even passionate defense of Germany against the prejudice and injustice of Americans. Mr. Hugins is a native American and a pacifist. He backs up his statements with verifiable facts.

CARLYLE AND THE WAR

By Marshall Kelly (Scotland)

8vo. Pp. 338. Cloth $1.00.

Carlyle prophesied the downfall of England, and Kelly points out the reasons why Carlyle's prophecy is now being fulfilled. It is a bitter denunciation of England's hypocrisy in her foreign policies.

THE OPEN COURT PUB. CO., Chicago

Giambattista Vico

A Study in Early Italian Philosophy

By BENEDETTO CROCE

TRANSLATED BY R. G. COLLINGWOOD

Fellow and Lecturer of Pembroke College, Oxford.

Demy 8vo. 320 pages.

NEW EDITION.

10s. 6d. net.

This book is a study of an Italian philosopher and scholar of the early eighteenth century, by one of the most distinguished of living philosophers, whose works are attracting universal attention at the present time, and seem likely to rival in popularity those of M. Bergson himself. Croce's book is an admirably lucid exposition of Vico's ideas, which he handles with sympathy, but with a penetrating criticism of their weak points.
